Course Description

This exciting IFBI EduQual Advanced Diploma in CSI Forensic Science (Associate Degree Level 5) is designed for all those who wish to add or develop this exciting field to their careers or study path or to add to their existing portfolio in the workplace. It provides new students with a much needed forensic science qualification and it also develops the competency and training of the law enforcement practitioner in both crime scene investigations and forensic science.

The Advanced Diploma in CSI Forensic Science (Associate Degree Level 5) provides the requisite knowledge and skills in the dual areas of CSI crime scene investigations and in the forensic science disciplines. It also develops the practical skills associated with crime scene investigations and the forensic science disciplines and will allow graduates to be able to apply this in the work environment. A significant aim of this program is to develop the knowledge, skills and competency of a graduate to be able to effectively deploy the combined knowledge and skills of crime scene investigations and the core forensic science disciplines to the workplace and in forensic science investigations. The program is delivered completely online so students could study from any place and any country and conveniently from their desktop or laptop computers, tablets or even their phones!

The program consists of six units and runs for one academic year (nine calendar months) divided into three semesters. The program conforms to the EduQual U.K. and RQF Level 5 (Associate Degree level) requirements. It subscribes to the relevant ASTM International guidelines for forensic training. The units of the program provide the full range of modules in crime scene investigations and forensic Science. The modules of the program are:

- Introduction to Forensic Science
